Ling/Greed schreibt ein Lied für Generalfeldmarschall Bradley/Wrath, in dem er ihm sagt, was er eigentlich von ihm hält.

Dear Wrath

Short were the night and good were the food when my days once revolved around her, counting her footsteps, praying she would be okay,
and her grandfather accused me of losing my mind but I swore I was fine

You took away my blue sky and it turned black as it started to rain and now I live in your cage, try to play your game but you change the rules everyday wondering which version of you I might get in the conference tonight
Well, I stopped stopping by and this song is to let you know why

Dear Wrath, I see it all now that she's gone don't you think she was too young to be messed with the girl without arm cried the whole way home
I should've known

Well, maybe it's me and my blind optimism to blame or maybe it's you and your sick need to hurt girls and take their arms away and you'll add her name to your long list of idiots who don't understand and now I look back and regret how she didn't react when I said Run as fast as you can!

Dear Wrath, I see it all now that she's gone
don't you think she was too young to be messed with
the girl without arm cried the whole way home

Dear Wrath, I see it all now, it was wrong don't you think 15's too young to be armless?
Your dark twisted game hurt her who I loved so I should've known

You are an expert at lying and you are always denying never impressed by her tricking you The girl you hurt that much She had tired, lifeless eyes
'cause you made her lose her arm but she will take your swords before you can do it again
So don't look now
She will be shining like a firework over your sad empty country

Dear Wrath, I see it all now that she's gone
Don't you think she was too young to be messed with
the girl without arm cried the whole way home
I should've known
Don't you think she was too young to be messed with the girl with automail came back today You should've known don't you think she was too young?
You should've known
